Participation pyramid

This pyramid shows what steps are necessary that people with disabilities could create processes in reality.

1. The first step of the pyramid is to give and receive information. To take part in meetings we basically need information. The information has to be in easy to read (article 21 of the UN-Convention).
2. The second step of the pyramid is to join boards within organisations. Self advocates take part of the discussions in board meetings and provide advice.
3. The third step of the pyramid is to be involved in decisions in board meetings.

4. The fourth step of the pyramid is to take part in elections, to vote, to decide.
5. The final and fifth step is to undertake responsibility as to take an active part in elections or to initiate political statements which have influence in the public environment.
